Course # 251.01-0006	Instructor #2: Rob Bowie
Instructor #1: Art Carlson	Instructor #3: Brendan O'Boyle

Course Overview: Sewage Enforcement Officers (SEOs) are often challenged to rectify an existing on-site sewage system problem where a sewage system malfunction is present. However, permitted sewage system repairs, which meet all of the current PA sewage regulations, are not always possible because all required on-site sewage isolation distances cannot be met. This course will look at the various factors which SEOs can examine from a technical standpoint to make the best possible decision, so that they are more confident and can justify why they made their decision.

Applicants who successfully complete this course will earn 6 credits towards their Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection required continuing education requirements. Be advised that in order to successfully obtain these credits, course applicants must meet all course requirements and not miss more than 30 minutes of the course. Registration is 8:00 AM - 8:30 AM. Course will start promptly at 8:30. Light refreshments are included. Lunch is on your own.

Course Cost: $50.00 for government employed SEOs and $125 for all other individual self-employed SEOs. Checks are made payable to the Bucks County Department of Health. The BCDH also accepts PayPal. Go to www.buckscounty.org/health to submit payment and send a copy of completed application to gakostick@buckscounty.org.
