EXECUTIVE REPORTS

Brian Hessenthaler, Chief Operating Officer, reported on the following:

Weather Issues – Thanks to Scott Forster and Emergency Management for providing early morning information so the County can do what it has to do during the recent weather events. Thanks also to Kevin Spencer and the General Services department for the phenomenal job getting the walkways and parking lots cleared and ready for everyone to come to work.

Chief Clerk – Deanna Giorno will be starting on Monday as the new Chief Clerk/Assistant to the COO. We are looking forward to having her on board – congratulations Deanna.

COMMISSIONER COMMENTS

Commissioner Marseglia referenced a recent newspaper column that questioned compassion for opioid addicts. She shared her perspective, saying that she is re-motivated to attack this problem and is open to suggestions. District Attorney Matt Weintraub provided his viewpoint and confirmed that the County is taking the right approach. He added that inroads are being made but there still needs to be personal accountability. Commissioner Martin said that he has a different viewpoint on this column but will not debate it at the meeting.

Commissioner Loughery advised that he was recently here (in the Commissioners’ meeting room) for an event for his daughter and noticed that the walls in the room were so bare. He pointed out that the County has an incredible art collection in storage at The Michener Art Museum and he suggested that using this art would be a way to get some color on the walls.
