A MESSAGE FROM THE BUCKS COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Did you know Saturday, June 13th, is National Get Outdoors (GO) Day, an annual nationwide event designed to challenge, motivate and inspire you to make outdoor recreation part of your daily, healthy lifestyle? As your Board of Bucks County Commissioners, we support and appreciate the role our Department of Parks and Recreation plays in providing quality outdoor venues for the more than 630,000 residents who call Bucks County home. We also welcome visitors from across the globe who enjoy our historic county and partake in the magnificence our 9,000 plus acres of parkland have to offer.

But June 13th is only one day, and our Parks and Recreation department has something for everyone, everyday, especially during the warm days of Spring and Summer. Throughout our geographically diverse array of parks, there is something for all, the young and the young at heart. From boating in Peace Valley to tennis in Core Creek; camping in Tinicum to picnicking in Playwicki; hiking in Ringing Rocks to golfing in Oxford Valley, the County has everything you need to spark your outdoor interests.

We can’t forget our trio of indoor/outdoor nature centers, Churchville, Peace Valley, and Silver Lake, which, in addition to their scenic beauty, offer superb educational programs for visitors of all ages.

The County also owns two properties on the National Register of Historical Places. Stover-Myers Mill, which produced flour and animal feed for the region, opened in the early 1800’s and closed down in 1955. Today, you can take a tour or see a milling demonstration. Speaking of traveling back in time, don’t forget to visit the Moravian Pottery and Tile Work, the only county government-owned tile works in the United States, where a tour will transport you to the early 1900’s when Henry Chapman Mercer created artisan tiles on the very same site.

During this 67th year of the Bucks County Department of Parks and Recreation, to encourage you and your family, once again we are offering the pocket-sized Passport to Bucks County Parks. It is filled with facts, photos and suggestions for your visit to the myriad of sites; bring your passport along on your travels and be sure to get it stamped at identified sites.

Want to know more? Would you like to join us April 25th at Core Creek Park for an Earth Day Celebration? How about watching the 78th Bucks County Dog Show on May 2nd at Tinicum Park? The Father’s Day Kid’s Fishing Derby takes place June 21st at Peace Valley Park and the Sixth Annual Bucks County Dragon Boat Festival will be held September 12th at Core Creek. This is only just a sampling. The Nature Centers offer Saturday morning bird walks, Sunday morning nature forays, and Campfire Programs during the summer. Both Oxford Valley and Tohickon Pools offer swim lessons, with the former also hosting a swim team as well as Senior Swim Time. And remember, you don’t have to go far to spend a night under the stars in nature: Lake Towhee, Tinicum, and Tohickon Valley all have designated camping areas.

On behalf of our Parks and Recreation and General Services staff, we invite you to join us in the great outdoors during 2020 where our pathways turn into your passport for recreation fun.

Want Better Health? Get Back to Nature
by Dr. Suzanne Steinbaum

Spending time in the great outdoors may have a positive impact on your overall health, including your heart and brain.

Research shows that spending time in a natural outdoor environment can be associated with lower levels of stress, depression, anxiety, high blood pressure, diabetes, asthma, stroke and heart disease. It can also help lower your heart rate, HDL cholesterol and cortisol levels, according to environmental research published in 2018. At the same time, it improves mood, self-esteem, working memory and overall feelings of well-being. This trend, called “ecotherapy” or “forest medicine,” is growing in popularity.

Four Ways to Get Healthy and Outside

If you find yourself feeling a little sluggish or spending more time glued to the computer, cellphone or TV, consider some of these simple ways to immerse yourself in nature and reap the benefits for both body and mind.

1. Take your workout outdoors. Walking is good for you, but not all walks are created equal. Strolling the urban streets doesn’t provide the same mental boost as hiking in nature. You don’t have to have a specific destination in mind either — set a goal, not to hike a certain number of miles, but to immerse yourself in the natural world around you, according to Dr. Qing Li. The Japanese call this “forest bathing,” and it can rejuvenate a weary mind.

2. Explore your city. Make a goal to explore a new park, trail or recreation area each weekend. Studies have found that simply viewing nature scenes can help your body recover from and adapt better to emotional stressors. For even more benefit, make it social and involve friends or family for an easy way to stay connected as you relish your surroundings.

3. Soak up the sunlight. As we head into spring, it’s time to move on from cozying up inside during the darker, colder winter months. Take advantage of the increasing daylight and nature’s health benefits by spending time outdoors. Even just a few minutes in the sun can improve your mood, help you get vitamin D and enhance cognitive abilities like memory and problem-solving. Be sure to practice sun safety, using sunscreen or protective clothing, if you’re going to be outside for a while.

4. Meditate on nature’s music. Leave your electronics behind and listen to the melodies nature has to offer: babbling brooks, bird songs, wind whistling through the trees and the scurrying of unseen animals through the canopy. In the Scientific Reports article, titled “Mind-wandering and alterations to default mode network connectivity when listening to naturalistic versus artificial sounds,” researchers suggest nature’s music is a lot more relaxing than honking horns and text message alerts. And, it offers the opportunity to practice meditative mindfulness in tranquil surroundings. To learn how to meditate or teach others about its benefits, the American Heart Association and Aramark offer resources to help you get started.

It’s great to move more and get outside, but don’t forget the benefits of simply relaxing and paying attention to your natural surroundings. With warmer months ahead, start finding small ways you and your family can get more time outdoors. If you’re interested in sharing these tips and more with your community, visit the Healthy for Life webpage.

Henry Chapman Mercer (1856-1930) established the Moravian Pottery and Tile Works during the fall of 1898 in an effort to preserve preindustrial pottery traditions and to promote his ideas about making tiles by hand. Constructed of hand-mixed, poured-in-place concrete, the present Tile Works was built between 1911 and 1912 to replace an earlier structure that served as Mercer’s first tile factory.

Today, the Moravian Pottery and Tile Works is owned by the County of Bucks and is operated as a “working history” museum by the Department of Parks and Recreation, Division of Historic Properties. Our purpose is to preserve, collect, and interpret the significance of this National Historic Landmark. Since 1974, tile production has been reactivated and has remained a part of our public interpretation of the site. Reissued tiles are made in a manner similar to those originally created by Mercer. The Tile Works maintains a vast historic collection of original tiles, plaster molds, tilemaking tools, drawings, records and documents that tell the story of this important proponent of the American Arts and Crafts Movement.

Your support helps our continued preservation and interpretation of this important National Historic Landmark. Membership is ideal for individuals and families who are interested in the story of Henry C. Mercer, pottery & tile making traditions, architecture, historic preservation, Bucks County’s history, or America’s past. Check our website for all membership information.

Moravian Pottery & Tile Works Apprenticeship

A unique collaboration between ceramists and an active Arts & Crafts working history museum. The apprenticeship program of the Moravian Pottery and Tile Works is offered twice yearly with each session limited to three participants. Apprentices work 24 hrs per week in exchange for an hourly wage.

Participants learn various forming and reproduction techniques including tile/mosaic making, mold work, glaze application, sagger firing for controlled smoking of clay, and concrete installation.

Apprentices have an opportunity to produce their own original tile work using the standard materials and tools of the pottery. They are exposed to a turn of the century knowledge based on the Arts & Crafts philosophy and aesthetics adhered to by the Moravian Pottery & Tile Works. It is hoped that these factors influence the tile work produced by the apprentices.

They are provided with limited studio space in the Tile Works, which is accessible to them between the hours of 5 a.m. and midnight, seven days a week. In addition, they receive free materials, use of tools, technical advice, and biweekly pay based on the work produced under the direction of the Tile Works.

Application guidelines and dates

Applicants for the apprenticeship are required to submit an application. Applications must be postmarked by the deadline date appropriate for the given session.

The following are required by each applicant: Resume, 10 clearly labeled slides or digital images of recent work (please include slide list), cover letter detailing the sort of interchange desired from the experience and why the Moravian Pottery & Tile Works is appropriate to your needs, two letters of recommendation. Applications must be postmarked by the deadline date appropriate for the given session. Slides will not be returned unless self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed.

You may submit the application in digital format via email to Adam Zayas, Head Ceramist at azayas@buckscounty.org. Recommendations are to be sent directly from the recommender either via post or email with complete contact information.

Summer Session: June 1 - August 10

Deadline is April 1st
